The title of Cohan and Harris's new musical revue, by George M. Cohan, was announced yesterday. It is called "Hello! Broadway," and Mr. Cohan himself will appear in it. Associated with him as costar will be William Coller and a number of well known actors and actresses, including Louise Dresser, Belle Blanche. Peggy Wood. Rozsika Dolly, Sydney Jarvis, Lawrence Wheat, John Hendricks, Charles Dow Clarke, Martin Brown, James Cody, Tom Dingle, Jack Corcoran and others, together with a large chorus.

"HELIO! BROADWAY" BY COHAN.

The company acquired the rights for several productions, including "The Lattlest Rebel," to produce which Mrs. Van Heusen put up $25,000, besides going to Atlanta, Ga., with the company and taking an active interest in the production. Everything went along nicely until Lincoln and Tichenor quarrelled. Mrs. Van Heusen stood by Lincoln, but her son-in-law, and Tichenor asked for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Van Heusen and Lincoln said that in order to get the two shares of stock which stood in his name, which Mrs. Van Heusen and Lincoln needed to control the company and cust him and Tichenor.
